W. C. T. U. NOTES

A very enjoyable evening was spent on Friday, November 10th, when the Westcott W. C. T. U. met at the home of Mrs. C. F. Hennis for their parlor meeting, a large crowd being present.

The president, Mrs. J. B. Finlay, acted as chairman. The meeting opened by the singing of "Onward Temperance Workers," followed by prayer by Mrs. Reiber. A delightful duet was then rendered by Mildred Levaag and Genevieve Brown after which, Miss Alice Rennie recited. Miss Cressman read an excellent report on the Annual W. C. T. U. Convention held at Edmonton, October 5th and 6th, 1921. Mrs. Erb then favored us with a piano solo. Miss Eva Ray gave a reading followed by the remainder of the report read by Mrs. J. V. Berscht. Mrs. Reiber spoke on the W. C. T. U. work among foreigners. An offering was filed amounting to $15.00, for this work. Mrs. J. Turello formally dismissed the meeting. A refreshing lunch was then served to which needles to say justice was done, and the meeting dispersed at an early hour.

Donald McIntyre Meets a Sudden Death

The Community was again shocked on Monday night when it learned of the sad accident that terminated the life of Mr. Don McIntyre who had been out shooting deer with his father and other friends on Monday afternoon and who was accidentally shot by a gun in the hands of his father.

It appears that Mr. W. McIntyre with his son Don had arranged with some of their neighbors to go on a deer hunt in the foothills at the first fall of snow and consequently started out on Monday morning for the hunt as the snowstorm had provided excellent hunting conditions. They had not seen any deer up to the time of the accident when some of the other hunters had excited up an animal and Mr. McIntyre told his son to go around one way while he would stay where he was. However, suddenly the deer broke into the open and Mr. McIntyre was aiming at the animal when he was suddenly surprised to hear the report of another gun close at his side and the exclamation "Oh daddy, 've got him!" The deer falling down with a broken back, Mr. McIntyre was taken completely by surprise and lowered his gun to his side when by some means it was discharged and Don received the bullet in the back on the left side just over the hip, the bullet going clean through the body and coming out in front. Don, no doubt, was excited and got in front of his father's gun.

A team and wagon was hurriedly brought and the injured man taken to an automobile as quickly as possible and he was rushed to the Didsbury General Hospital, but the doctors could do nothing for him and he passed away a few minutes after reaching the hospital.

Deceased was nearly 21 years of age and of a very likable disposition and a great lover of the outdoors like his father.

Naturally, Mr. McIntyre is completely prostrated by the fearful accident as the boy and his father were great chums. This is the fourth death of close relatives that Mr. McIntyre has suffered within the last few years.

The father and three sisters, Mary and Maud of the telephone staff and a younger girl and a little brother, live to mourn his loss, his mother having died in 1917.

The whole community extend their sympathy to Mr. McIntyre and the family in their terrible loss.

(This is the second fatal shooting accident within two weeks. In the very, very careful of your firearms.)

Burglars Cause Great Excitement

Last Thursday morning the town woke up and rubbed its eyes in wonder when it heard of the attempted burglary of three or four stores during the the previous night, all the same big city.

One of the burg's, if there were more than one came near being caught but unfortunately managed to get away. Mr. J. V. Berscht's store had been broken into the night before and so he had asked Mr. Harry Gabel to sleep in the store the next night, although, naturally, it was thought that the burglar, like lightning, would not strike in the same place twice. But events proved differently and Mr. Burglar came back the second night, and he got a warm reception from Mr. Gabel who luckily tackled him without any means of defence, so he got in the back window. There was a regular rough and tumble from that time on from the back end of the store to the front door and blood was sprinkled rather freely on the office furniture but the burglars

Reduce The Expenditures

The public debt of Canada is seven to eight times what it was seven years ago, and the great bulk of this enormous increase in debt represents money borrowed at a much higher rate of interest than this Dominion was called upon to pay prior to 1914. The result is that Canada's annual interest charges are now almost, if not quite, equal to the total revenue and expenditure of the Dominion a comparatively few years ago.

In addition to this tremendous drain upon the revenues of the country, Canada has a national railway system which is operating at a loss of more than a million dollars a week. Sir Joseph Flavelle, now chief of the Canadian National Railways department, declared a few weeks ago that the loss for 1921 would be between $67,000,000 and $75,000,000. He added that the system would continue to lose money and he estimated that it would be from three to five years before it could even pay operating expenses, and that it might be ten years before interest charges on rail could be covered by earnings.

Canada also has today an extensive Government Merchant Marine which is operating at a loss, with many vessels tied up idle in harbors, and the capital value of the ships enormously depreciated as compared with their original cost.

Coupled with these facts the country is faced with a declining revenue from Customs occasioned by depressed world trade, and the decreased buying power of the Canadian people.

Faced with such a situation in his personal business, what would a keen financier, manufacturer, or business man do? What, in fact, do such men always do when they find liabilities and debts piling up? There is only one answer: They cut out every item of expenditure they possibly can; they stop expenditures on new ventures unless they are of an immediate revenue and profit producing character; they throw all their skill and energy into bringing their expenditure within the limits of their revenues, and rigidly refrain from incurring any new liabilities. In a word, they safeguard all their resources and devote careful attention to the strengthening of their credit.

And surely that with long experience has taught the keen financier and commercial manager to be good business, is equally good business for the nation. But is Canada profligate by the lessons of such experience? It would seem to be necessary to record a negative answer.

In the press reports we still read of contracts being awarded for great works, such as drydocks for the Pacific Coast, to cost millions of dollars. Reports of the launching of new ships for the Government Merchant Marine still appear in print although it is an acknowledged fact that there is now a surplus of world shipping and those now in commission are losing money. Only the other day announcement was made that it had been decided to retire the building of wooden ships on the Pacific Coast.

With declining business and falling revenues, a business man loses no time in decreasing his staff, but in Canada our Government continues to pay to maintain a top-heavy civil service, employing two and three men, or women, where one would be sufficient for the work demanding attention.

At a time—three years after the close of the war—when Canada should be beginning to gradually reduce the great debt created by the war, the opposite fact is that the national debt is still increasing, little or no attempt is made to restrict expenditures, and certainly no truly courageous effort is made to meet the needs of an exceedingly serious situation.

The inevitable result is that taxation is not only heavier than ever before known in this Dominion, but it is increasing, as it is bound to increase with every addition to the national debt, and as it must continue to increase until a vigorous and really effective attempt is made to stop all unnecessary expenditures, eliminate all waste and extravagance, and reduce the total of all national expenditures to a figure, not only within the revenue, but which will produce a surplus to apply in the reduction of the existing debt.

This is not a political article in a partisan sense. The situation we have outlined in regard to the Dominion is not or less true in many of the provinces and municipalities. The debt of Canada in the long run if a halt is not soon called, must emphatically demand a return to sanity and the exercise of the same prudence in the management of public business which the great majority of them insist upon in the handling of their private affairs.

But Not Until Stock of Horizon Blue is Exhausted.

Horizon blue will be replaced by khaki as the color of the uniforms worn by French officers and soldiers, under a decision reached by the superior war council. The uniform of the French army will in future be similar in color to those of the British army.

Select Laxative Medicine With Great Care

In debility and weakness, medicine should be mild and far-reaching. Many pills and purgatives are too hard, are drastic instead of curative. Excessive action is always followed by depression, and knowing this Dr. Hamilton devised his pills of Mandrate and Butternut so as to mildly increase liver and kidney activity, so as to flush out the system by toning and regulating the bowels. Thus Dr. Hamilton's Pills eliminate poisons from the body, thus do they restore clearness to the skin, thus they restore new health and strength. To keep your system in healthy good working order, regulate it with Dr. Hamilton's Pills. See all dealers or The Catarthzone Co., Montreal.

STERN REMINDERS OF RHEUMATISM

The Trouble Must be Treated Through the Blood.

Every rheumatic sufferer should realize that rheumatism is rooted in the blood and that to get rid of it, it must be treated through the blood. The old belief that rheumatism was caused by cold, damp weather, is now exploded.

Such weather conditions may start the pains, but it is not the cause. Liniments and outward applications may give temporary relief, but that is all they can do because they do not reach its source in the blood.

The sufferer from rheumatism who attempts with outward applications is only wasting time and money in the pending upon such treatment. The trouble still remains, and it is all the time becoming more firmly rooted. Treat this disease through the blood and you will soon find relief. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills act directly on impure, weak blood; they purify and strengthen it, and so act on the cause of the rheumatism. Mr. J. MacPherson, R.R. No. 5, Gardiner, P.E.I., says: "About three years ago I began to suffer from rheumatism. I began taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and soon the trouble disappeared and I am in better health than before. I also know of an old lady acquaintance who was badly crippled with rheumatism in her arms and legs, and who suffered very much. She, too, took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and is now able to do her housework. I tell you this in the hope it may be of benefit to some other sufferer."

You can procure Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through any dealer in medicine or they will be sent you by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 by writing direct to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Biggest Thing Of It's Kind Ever Seen In New York Says Druggist

The fact that 625,000 bottles of Tanlac have been sold in the State of New York since its introduction there less than one year ago, is a big business item that will attract unusual attention throughout the entire East for nothing like it has ever happened before. It breaks all records.

Mr. George H. Evans, manager of the Gibson-Shaw Company, the well-known wholesale druggists, with branches in Albany, Buffalo, Rochester and Syracuse, recently announced that the preparation was now selling in their trade territories alone at the phenomenal rate of approximately 500,000 bottles a year.

"If the present rate continues," said Mr. Evans, "this State alone will probably require considerably over 750,000 bottles a year. This is a tremendous figure, but I am really conservative in making this statement."

Tanlac is sold by leading druggists everywhere.

Discovery of Borax

Preservative Power Discovered by Prospector in Yellowstone Park

The wonderful preservative power of borax were first discovered in Yellowstone Park, Wyoming. A wandering prospector in that desolate though picturesque region came across the body of a horse, which, although it must have died long before, was perfectly whole and sweet. Looking around for an explanation of the phenomenon, he found that the animal was covered with a layer of fine dust, which proved to be borax. He saw the commercial value of his discovery and sold the secret to a large packing firm in Chicago.

British Expert Says Conditions Gradually Returning To Normal

New York.—Reginald McKenna, former chancellor of the British exchequer, who has been making a three-weeks' study of the commercial and economic situation in America, declared in a statement that the financial picture was clear, and thought it will probably be some considerable time before normal conditions are restored. I am inclined to say that the corner is turned.

"I would like to add, however," Mr. McKenna said, "it is no time for speculation. Recovery is bound to be slow, working through a period of moderate fluctuation, though I hope, and expect, that the tendency will be an improving one."

"I find," Mr. McKenna continued, "that very considerable interest is taken in the question of international debts between governments. This is a subject on which I could only venture to speak from the British point of view. We are large creditors, and in relation to the United States, we are also debtors. As a debtor, I have nothing to say except that Britain pays her debts. On the other hand, speaking as a creditor, my opinion is that Britain would be well advised to have regard only to her industrial and economic position, to remit the obligations due to her.

"If I dared to tread on dangerous ground—for a moment it would be to say that the influence of the United States is indispensable in the councils of the world. You are allied to Europe and the Far East by the bonds of trade, and the responsibilities which arise from this relationship cannot be ignored without great loss to the world and an unfavorable reaction upon yourselves. In England, the calling of the conference by President Harding is most warmly welcomed, not merely for the sake of the results which it may be achieved, but it is the first time that a great and powerful government has assumed the responsibility of bringing together the prime ministers of other nations to confer upon the means of securing lasting conditions of peace. Peace and industry are the prime needs of the world at the present time, and the world looks to the United States to lead the way."

HEART WOULD BEAT LIKE A TRIP HAMMER

Heart trouble has of late years become very prevalent. Sometimes a pain catches you in the region of the heart, now and then your heart skips beats, palpitates, throbs, or beats with such rapidity and violence you think it is going to burst.
You have weak and dizzy spells, sinking sensations, are nervous, irritable and depressed, and at times attempt to walk upstairs or any distance you get all out of breath.

Mrs. Chadwick, Delhi, Ont., writes: "I had palpitation of the heart, and the least exercise, such as going up stairs or up a hill, my heart would beat like a trip hammer and at times I was dizzy-headed and had a sinking sensation as if my time were near."
A friend suggested I try Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills, so I procured three boxes, and by the time the first one was used I began to improve. In all I took six boxes, and now although in my 65th year I feel like a young girl; no dizziness or heart thumping, and can walk miles without fatigue. ## Many British Flags At U.S. Convention

Escorts Who Met Admiral Beatty Greeted With Cheers

Ottawa.—That British flags were being carried and cheered by delegates to the convention of the American Legion in Kansas City was stated in a message received at Great War Veterans' Association headquarters here from Gen. N. D. Maxwell, Douglas president, and Rev. C. C. Jenkins, international delegates representing Canadian ex-servicemen at the convention. Mr. Maxwell, in his message, declared the spirit of the gathering "would prove to be one more step towards a better understanding between the British and American people."

When the contingent of Britishers marched to meet Admiral Beatty, there were everywhere cheered and no untoward remarks were heard as they escorted the famous admiral through the streets.

Admiral Beatty has made a splendid impression. Mr. Maxwell noted, "The legions of Britain in the United States are dismayed at the unanimity of public opinion which accredits this British star as the foremost hero of sea warfare during the present century."

It will also set forth that the conference to establish peace desired by the Moscow government would be possible only after an allied, or preferably an international, consensus of opinion was obtained regarding the policy that was to be pursued toward Russia's indebtedness.

Youngstown, Ohio.—While working in parks here as one of the city's unemployed, C. P. Virtus, 28, former Canadian soldier, received a letter from a trust company of Edmonton, Alta., informing him that he had become heir to his father's estate valued at between $10,000 and $50,000.

The heir said he will be leaving the city to pick up his father's property. The latter had been found, but as the will had not been witnessed, it is not regarded as valid under Canadian law.

U.S. Becoming Alarmed Over Rapid Decrease Of Canadian Trade

Has Confidence In Disarmament Meet

First Lord of British Admiralty Not Looking For Failure

New York.—Confidence that much good would come out of the Washington conference on the limitation of armaments, was expressed by delegates from Great Britain, Italy and China, on their arrival here on the Olympic.

Lord Lee of Farnham, First Lord of the British Admiralty, in a formal statement said: "So far as I am concerned, and here I speak not only as the responsible head of the British Admiralty, but as one of the official delegates, I come in a spirit of quiet confidence that the results of this conference will be such as to amply justify President Harding's far-seeing initiative, and, personally, I am not prepared even to contemplate the possibility of failure. To do so would be to assume that the world was afflicted with an incurable insanity and could not be restrained from suicide."

Seek to Prevent Grain Blockade

Railway Companies Cooperate to Relieve Competition at Lakes

Winnipeg.—A meeting was held between the representatives of the two railway companies and the members of the Northwest Grain Dealers' Association, when conditions at the lake front with respect to grain storage were discussed.

It was decided that the grain elevator companies and the cooperative elevator companies would lend assistance if called on in order to prevent anything in the nature of a blockade at the lakes.

"As far as the Canadian Pacific Railway is concerned," said D. C. Coleman, vice-president of the company, "there is no connection on the line and if lake elevator conference to offer in any volume at Port William, loading restrictions will not be necessary."

STANDING IN HIS OWN LIGHT

FACE THE SUN AND THE SHADOWS WILL FALL BEHIND

New York.—The trade of the United States with Canada "right now is waving a red flag," declared the New York Herald in an editorial discussing the fact that the value of United States exports to Canada is decreasing much more rapidly than that of United States imports from the Dominion. The Herald suggests in this connection the advisability of extending larger credits to Canada.

"Canadian values are not very far apart from our own," the paper says, "if, therefore, we lose two dollars of sales to Canada for every dollar of sales that Canada loses to us, we are moving decidedly in the wrong direction."

The paper declares that this is what the United States has been doing, pointing figures to show that for every dollar that Canada exports to the United States have come down in the last year, United States' exports to Canada have come down two dollars and a quarter.

"And Canada, let us not forget, has become our second biggest and best customer in the world," continues the Herald. "With our Canadian exports of approximately a billion dollars a year, only the United Kingdom surpassed Canada in the volume and value of goods bought from us. The whole of South America with Mexico, Central America and the West Indies thrown in, did not equal Canada as a buyer in the markets of the United States. Now the relative swing is heavily against us."

Discussing possible remedies, the Herald declares: "We have plastered loans all over other countries which never can be repaid, except in the name, while we have been giving with credits to the one country destined normally to be our very best customer."

PAINS SO BAD STAYED IN BED

Young Mrs. Beecroft Had Miserable Time Until She Took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Hamilton, Ont.—"I have suffered for three years from a female trouble and consequent weakness, pain and irregularity which kept me in bed four or five days each month. I nearly went crazy with pains in my back, and for about a week at a time I could not do my work. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the Hamilton Spectator and I took it. Now I have no pain and am quite regular unless I overwork or stay up too late at night. I keep house and do all my own work without any trouble from my former trouble. The Compound is several times."—Mrs. Emily Beecroft, 263 Victoria Ave. N., Hamilton, Ontario.

For forty years women have been using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have restored their health when suffering with female ills. This accounts for the enormous demand for it from coast to coast. If you are troubled with any ailment peculiar to women, why don't you try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound? It is made from native roots and herbs and contains no narcotics or harmful drugs. For special advice women are asked to write the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The reason for forty years' experience in its use is because

NEWSPAPER RIGHTS

There are some men who have peculiar ideas about a newspaper. They regard it, not as a business, but as a convenience. If the paper reaches them late, or fails to give them every item of news, or if it conducts towards them in a mean, they do not like it, then they very properly make a business matter of it, because they bargained for something they were not getting.

These same men will treat the newspaper man with a smile, offer him a cigar and then ask him to pay in the paper that he is the most enterprising and progressive citizen in the town. That's their idea of business.

Now the newspaper is a business. It is not a glory making machine. It can no more live on sentiment, than can its employees. It may surprise you but business doesn't want to be taken into account of persons who will make them do it. It's true you may see one or two dollars for the last year's back subscription on a small advertising account, yet if three or four hundred subscribers and all our advertisers reason like you that we can collect the news for the fact of it, printers would first to print the paper for you, the paper mill give us our paper just because they want to see us do well, the machinery men give us machinery for same reason, then it becomes a different matter, instead of a few dollars worth of a few dollars worth of glory it is nearly a hundred cash worth for help and supplies.

The newspaper business is made up of small things, and it is such items which, if collected, enables the management to improve its service and pay off all obligations promptly, but which if deprived for trivial reasons, makes the cash account short and the newspaper man has to govel along under a weight of about sixty pounds to the square inch.

Perhaps you have never given thought to our subject on this line. If not, then, if this article serves to call your serious attention to it, its mission has been accomplished.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of my devoted husband Collis O. Johansson who passed away Nov 6th, 1926.

Not now but in the coming years,
It may be in a better land,
We'll read the meaning of our tears
And there somehow we'll understand.

We'll catch the broken thread again
And finish what we here began;
Heaven will the mystery explain
And then, ah, then, we'll understand.

God knows the way. He holds the key.
He guides us with unerring hand,
Sometime with tearless eyes we'll meet.

Yet there up there we'll understand.
Mrs. Lorenz Johansson.

Everybody knows that in Ca. via there are more

The Knicker Suit For Sports Wear

By Marie Belmont.

Perhaps one of the most practical creations for outdoor sports is the knicker suit. This model is cut from a brown mixture tweed which is enlivened with a narrow plain line of orange. The coat is elaborated with four large patch pockets that will be appreciated by those who wander afield. Leather buttons accentuate its sportswomanlike appearance, while the belt is slipped through a leather covered buckle. An orange felt hat trimmed with a band of brown ribbon gives a colorful touch to the costume. The brown wool stockings reveal touches of orange in their fancy tops.

Every moment of the business and social day the block signals are giving right of way to keenness and alertness—while the slow and the heavy must wait on the sidetrack for their chance to move forward.

THE RED PIGEON — THE YOUNG PRIEST AND HIS
CONVERTS — THE DEATH
OF RED PIGEON — A PLEDGE FULFILLED.

Last Things

Old Meekoo—Maymee* (The Red Pigeon) had passed away, and now her body must have Christian burial. She had drawn her annuity for the last time, had eaten her last bannock, had partaken of her last meal of Government bacon and fresh beef, had quaffed her last cup of tea, had smoked her last pipe, and for the last time had kissed her crucifix, counted her beads, and said her last prayer.

Early Missions

Thirty years before this occurrence a young priest of the Roman Catholic Church, fresh from college at Montreal, and from his apostolic ordination by the Reverend Fathers, had reached the Qu'Appelle Mission, ready and eager to spend his young life for the betterment of the Metis in their scattered settlements, or for the enlightenment of the wandering tribes of Indians who roamed at will over the summer prairie in pursuit of the buffalo, or who traversed the winter forests as trappers and hunters.

A Unique Mission Field

For fifteen years his life from early Spring until latest Autumn was spent among the roving bands, of both half-breeds and savages, whose sole occupation during those months was puning and killing the buffalo, the hides of which they converted into robes prepared for the markets of all northern climes, and whose flesh they preserved as pemican for sale at the Company's posts, often to be resold, in the following winter, to the Indian at a handsome profit, in the event of a scarcity of food.

Living The Simple Life

As the red men thus wandered, hither and thither, year after year, over the boundless prairies, the young priest went where they went, slept where they slept, ate where and what they ate, learned their language and their modes of thought, baptized their infants and buried their dead.

From the Known to the Unknown

Building on the Indian's marvelous conception of the Manitou, he told them of his Fatherly beneficence, of the Manger Babe at Bethlehem, His wonderful life among the poor, His deeds of love and mercy, His ignominious death and His return to "Kache-Keeak—Awoosats" (The Land Beyond the Big Sky).

Converts

The simple pathos of his story appealed to and won many a savage heart. Scores of converts were baptized. Among the latter was Meekoo-Maymee, the Red Pigeon. And now, a quarter of a century later, she had "ceased to live" and her body awaited Christian burial, because an injunction had been laid upon the tribes that when any of these baptized converts met death, no matter in what part of the country it must be reported to the nearest priest or mission, so that the body might be laid away in consecrated ground, in a marked grave, and guarded from the depredations of the ravenous beasts of forest or plain.

A Dry Country

The summer of 1869 was a period of dry scorching weather. Vegetation was parched by the intense heat, and where in the spring time hundreds of sloughs had been filled with water, only immense areas of baked earth, showing fissures of almost incredible length could be seen.

A Problem

The Indians of File Hills were faced to face with a serious problem. Their hay meadows had been burnt up by the fervent heat apparently their splendid herd of six hundred cattle was doomed to starvation in the coming winter.

For weeks the situation was the subject of grave consideration by department officials.

The Solution

The final decision reached was that the whole Indian encampment, of over 100 people—men, women and children—with all their cattle and horses must migrate thirty miles north to Horse Hills, where hundreds of lakelets, filled with water had been located where grass grew high as a horse's back and where timber in abundance could be found suitable alike for fuel and for building purposes.

The White Chief

The task of supervising this great trek and bringing it to a successful issue was placed upon the Farm Instructor, Mr. Richard McConnell, who became the "White Chief" of the community until the following Spring. Thousands of tons of hay were stacked and protected by miles of fire guards, and hundreds of houses and stables erected. Immense quantities of food were freighted from the Government warehouse at the south.

Death In The Camp

During the long, cold, tedious winter the average number of deaths occurred—that of Red Pigeon being one.

An Indian Runner

Fifty miles south to the mission at Lebret, an Indian messenger was sent to Father Hugonard, the one time priest of the buffalo hunting days. He arrived at dusk.

Keeping a Pledge

The Rev. Father made immediate preparation for an early daylight start north. During the night an awful blizzard developed. Three priests resident at the mission each in turn besought the Father for the privilege of going in his stead.

Deeds Not Words

While uncertainty prevailed as to which of the three might be chosen, one stole away to the stables, harnessed and hitched a horse to the sleight and appearing at the mission door, simply said, "Good-bye, give me your blessing. I am off."

Some Journey

The winds blew and the blizzards raged, and all roads and trails were obliterated, but into the teeth of the storm went this devoted young priest to make good the pledge of the Church given years before to a benighted Indian woman. His first night was spent in a bluff, where his well blanketed horse partook of a generous feed of oats, then lay down on the snow to rest. The priest himself, behind his temporary windbreak, was able to kindle a fire and throw out sufficient food for his supper. The second night was passed under similar conditions.

Arrival and Return

On the morning of the fourth day the priest was ready to start on his return journey. Again two long night vigils were spent in the open air, his only companions being his horse and the frozen corpse of the Indian woman.

The Home Stretch

On the morning of the sixth day the intrepid son of the Church struck out across an open plain of 20 miles extent, over which the tireless winds whistled, and shrieked as they carried the blinding snow here, there, and everywhere. At noon he found the head of Larocque Coulee, and descended into the shelter of the Qu'Appelle valley.

Duty Done

At noon he reached the mission, and staggering fell across the threshold, utterly exhausted. He had suffered much, but his self-imposed task was finished and the body of Meekoo-Maymee The Red Pigeon, received Christian burial.

Tales of Our Own Country

Dealing with Matters of Interest to all Canadians—The Incomparable Resources of Our Country—The Beauty of Its Landscapes—The Possibilities of Regions Almost Unexplored.

In the early days the Little Arm Valley, which enters Long Lake about a mile and a half above the present summer resort of Regina Beach, was a great feeding ground for the buffalo. In winter time they sought shelter there and fed on the side hills when the snow lay deep on the plains. In summer, however, they spread out over the prairie.

A Mighty Hunter

Sometimes in the fifties there was a very redoubtable French-Canadian named St. Cyr, who was attached to the Hudson's Bay post at Touchwood Hills. He was a man of great physical strength and renowned throughout the region as a mighty hunter. One summer he was in charge of the little trading post which the great fur company maintained on the eastern shores of Long Lake, not very far from the present site of Saskatchewan Beach.

One day in the fall accompanied by a Saulteaux Indian, he took a boat, and rowing across the lake landed at the mouth of the Little Arm Valley. They proceeded up the valley for a couple of miles, shooting the ducks which at that season of the year were coming in from the swamps and lakes of the far north on their way to the wintering grounds of the south.

St. Cyr was a fine shot and before the afternoon was well advanced the Indian was carrying a very respectable bag of wild ducks.

An Old Bull

As they crossed the mouth of a ravine which cut into the valley bank they came upon a solitary old buffalo bull. The scars which marked his visage and sides were manifest evidences of many a sanguinary conflict with others of his species. He was one of those outcasts which had been chased out of the herd by the younger and more vigorous male animals.

A Feast of Arms

He stood surveying the hunters with a bitter and misanthropic expression. Then all at once down went his head and up went his tail and he came at them at the charge. The Indian did not pause upon the order of his going, but beat it in the direction of a clump of trees which grew by the river bank. St. Cyr, however, was of different mood. He had yet to meet a denizen of the prairie, man or beast for which he would give ground. He received the charging bull with both barrels of bird shot from his fowling piece but it had about as much effect upon it as a slugs as it fired at granite rock, then casting aside his gun, he awaited the attack with composure. As the bull

A WEEKLY CAUSERIE OF MATTERS—TREATED IN LIGHTER VEIN

CARELESS DOCTORS—CARUSO—A LEGACY TO FUTURE GENERATIONS—DIVORCE AND DISINTERESTED LOVE.

It is rather surprising to observe that no action is to be taken against the doctor in Toronto who recently admitted to two women the wrong drug, causing almost immediate death. In our opinion there can be very little excuse for such carelessness on the part of any man admitted to the practice of medicine. It would seem to us as though life, today, is coming to be held far too lightly when such an occurrence as the one quoted can be passed over with so little comment; no example being made of the person responsible for the hastening of two victims of his negligence to eternity.

The calling of a doctor is a serious one. He holds too often the balances of life and death in his hands; he is the last appeal to so many of us that only such men as those who by earnest diligence and training are immune from the possibility of such mistakes as the one which caused this terrible tragedy should be allowed to practice.

Seeing an error of this kind should be at least sufficient to deter the culprit from the practice of his profession for a period during which time he might be making himself more fit to minister to suffering mankind, such fitness to be determined by his peers.

In view of the sad fact that Enrico Caruso, the marvellous opera singer, is reported to have lost his voice, it is a comfort to reflect reached him he leaped nimbly aside then running in seized it by both horns. A mighty tussle ensued. Then slowly the head of the bull was forced to the ground and St. Cyr by a mighty heave threw it off its feet. It only took a moment for him to draw his long hunting knife from the sheath which hung at his hip and plunge it into the animal's neck. When the Indian who had witnessed this remarkable scene returned to the spot the bull was quite dead and St. Cyr was calmly engaged in removing his hair.

Acocoe The Hunter

Another great hunting exploit was performed at Crooked Lakes in comparatively recent times by an Indian named Acocoe. It happened, I think, some time in the '90s. Acocoe had been down in the Moose Mountains hunting moose, and had not been successful. He had shot away all his bullets when he came upon three fine moose. He had no doubt in killing them and he conceived the idea of herding them where he could replenish his bullet pouch.

He was famous among all the plains people as a runner; so divesting himself of all superfluous clothing he headed the moose in the direction of Crooked Lakes and ran tirelessly and remorselessly in their tracks. Day after day they travelled northward, the man showing himself occasionally in order to head them in the desired direction. Incredible as it may appear, he eventually ran them into a little bluff on the shores of the lake, near the agency buildings of Crooked Lakes. He left them there whilst he went to the agency storehouse and obtained a new supply of bullets, then went back and killed the three of them.

This story, strange as it may seem, was well vouched for by Colonel MacDonald, the agent, and other officials of the Indian Department.

Acocoe was said to possess the fleetest foot on the plains and could run incredible distances. He transmitted this quality to his son who at one time was a pupil of the old Industrial School in Regina, and who achieved considerable fame as a foot-racer.

If I am not mistaken the elder Acocoe is still alive at the Crooked Lakes Agency.

Z. M. Hamilton

that the wonderful music which he has already given to the world is not to us—and not lost to our children. In connection with this thought the writer heard the other day that in the large new building to be erected in Montreal by a well known Gramophone Record Producing Company, Master records of each of the great artists of our day are to be built into a chamber in the walls of the building so that—say a thousand years from now, should such catastrophe have effaced our race and its history for a period of time and then our remains should be unearthed by the beings who may replace us on this sphere, they would be able to listen to the music which delighted the ears of the natives in the twentieth century!

That is rather a wonderful idea is it not? And makes us speculate as to what those mythical beings, a thousand years ahead of us, will think of us and our music; what will they write about; how far they will have advanced and grown in comparison to us. I could not help wondering, too, whether it might be the intention of that record producing company to leave for the delectation of those far-off generations some of the "jazz" of our popular nowadays, but probably they desire the peoples of that future time to think of us as kindly and gently as possible and so will only leave the classics—the best of us—We hope so.

It is only about three years ago since divorce was almost unheard of in Saskatchewan. Today it is fairly common, and we are becoming somewhat used to the notices which appear in the daily papers.

Divorce, with its manifold complications will never be anything but a sordid blot on any nation. At the same time we do not deny that there are cases in which a clean cut severance by law is the only solution, to the tangle into which some marriages have become snarled. But we still think that on going to the root of the matter the majority of divorces should never have been marriages in the first place. People become thrown together in the most indissoluble ties by ulterior motives, not knowing the meaning of love which can be the only foundation of a truly happy home and distress and shipwreck can but result.

Speaking of disinterested love, the writer was this week reading again the inimitable story by Charles Dickens, "A Tale of Two Cities," and in the sketch of Sidney Carton we think the author has surpassed himself.

You will, perhaps, remember that Carlton advised Evermonde's wife, Evermonde, an aristocrat from a noble French family, hated by the people, was to be guillotined, and Carton, an Englishman, who resembled him in appearance, changed places with him, by an arrangement with the jailor, and suffered death in his stead, while the friends whom he had served so nobly escaped from the unhappy country. Remember, Carton loved Evermonde's wife, and gave up his life that he might keep her husband, and as we read and re-read the story we cannot help but wonder if a baser thought ever entered Carton's mind—the thought, for instance, that had Evermonde been guillotined, the woman he loved would have been free, and maybe, in time, would have turned to him, and although we know such reasoning would have been mere human, yet it seems scarcely in connection with him, who became truly the hero of that wonderful story.

Perhaps there are those among us capable of such self-forgetting sacrifice. After all it takes the occasion to bring out the noble deed and should circumstances warrant we think there are more heroes in our midst that we are aware of.

—E. L.
